About This Guide

This user guide is designed to provide health service users with instructions on how to work with the AIHW OSR data validation rules that have been implemented in the Health Data Portal as part of the OSR reporting data asset submission workflow process.

This guide will go through each of the OSR activities/sections health services are funded to report on through the Data Portal, and detail each of the data validation flags that could potentially appear for each of the sections of the form.

The screenshots included in the guide for each activity will identify, where possible, what actions need to be taken (including the cells that need to be amended where applicable) to address each validation issue message that appears so health service users are able to resolve each issue and move on to the next step of the process.

Version History

This section details the different versions of this user guide and what they contain, allowing you to decide if/when you need to download an updated version of the guide for your use.

Version Number	Date	Change
1.0	30 October 2023	Original version
1.1	3 September 2025	Updated to include new validation rules

Data Validation Issue Overview

When a health service submits their OSR data in the Data Portal either through “direct load” from their CIS or enters it into the Data Portal manually, data validation will be run over their data using the rules specified by the AIHW. If any of these data validation rules have been broken in the health service’s data submission, data validation flags will be added to the applicable sections of the health service’s OSR form.

Once this occurs, the health service will be asked to go into their data asset in the Data Portal and address each data validation flag that has appeared. For each validation flag that has been added to the data asset, the user will be asked to either amend the values in the indicator the validation flag refers to or add a response to the flag to explain the values.

There are several different validation flags that can appear in the OSR form, and it can be difficult at times for the user to know exactly what needs to be done. This can be even more difficult when a validation flag relates to more than one section of the form.

To assist health services with resolving their data validation issues, this user guide looks at each of the data validation flags that could appear for each section of the OSR form and provides advice for the user on how to resolve the issue and remove the flag.

Before each of the sections of the form and their validation flags are addressed, there are a couple of things that should be noted:

- Regardless of the data validation flag that appears in the OSR form, a user will always have the option of responding to the flag rather than amending the values that have been identified as needing to be changed. This can be done by selecting  next to the applicable validation flag in the Navigations Tray.
- If a user is ever unsure which cell(s) on a tab particular data validation flag refers to, they can select  to highlight the cell(s) in question. Each of the screenshots in this guide, have utilised  to highlight the fields in question in red.

Working with linked sections

There are some sections of the OSR form in the Data Portal that are linked. This means that if you change a value in one section, it may have an impact on a value in another section and may generate a data validation flag for each of the impacted sections.

The table below lists each of the sections on the OSR form, the sections they are linked to and how they are linked. This will assist health services in identifying the impact making a change to a value in a particular section of the form will have on other sections of the form.

Form Section	Linked To	Link Type
Clinic Information	Client numbers	The total number of clients for the different clinics does not match the total number of clients on the Client numbers tab
Episodes of care	Client numbers	The number of episodes of care is less than the number of clients
		The number of episodes care is greater than 0 while the number of clients = 0
		The number of episodes of care equals the number of clients
	Client contacts	The number of episodes of care equals the number of client contacts (excluding transport contacts)
Client contacts	Episodes of care	The total number of client contacts (excluding transport contacts) is less than the total number of episodes of care
Client numbers	Episodes of care	The number of episodes of care is less than the number of clients
		The number of episodes care is greater than 0 while the number of clients = 0
		The number of episodes of care equals the number of clients

OSR Validation Issues by Section

This section of the user guide looks at the different sections of the Health Data Portal OSR form and the different data validation rules that are applied to each section. The information below will detail the different data validation flags that will be generated when a data validation rule is breached by a health service's data. In addition, it will also detail what the health service user needs to do to address the data validation flag and resolve the applicable data breach.
